Specification

1. The title of the invention is not adequately descriptive. A new title is required that is more clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed by making reference to the wing feature.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1 to 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Takegawa (U.S. 2002/0003681). The dummy slider 12 reads on the claimed wing feature and the suspension 16 reads on the claimed strut. The dummy slider is positioned on an opposite side of a disk 1 from an active slider 11 in a position mirroring that of the active slider. The dummy slider acts aerodynamically on the disk to prevent flexing of the disk as it rotates (paragraph 0054). As to claim 5, the active slider 11 and its support 15 can read on the claimed second wing feature and second strut, while for claim 6 the active slider reads on the claimed head.
